Mona at the Thunderbird Mike.

"HELLDORADO"

THE Thunderbird Hotel is in Las Vegas, and Miss Mona Knox is currently at the Thunderbird, engaged in a variety of posing and entertaining appropriate for a "real western" gal who's also a talented dancer and singer. Mona—5 ft. 5 in. tall, 112 pounds—was born in Oklahoma City of mixed French, Indian, and Irish ancestry. This auspicious event occurred in 1929, and since then Miss Knox has moved still farther west, to Hollywood, to star on stage and TV.

Mona keeps limber for ballet.

That sultry look—just to prove she's a versatile girl.

A PEEK AT LITHE
CARLYN FRANZ
REHEARSING ON THE MONTAUK DUNES

FACING a camera comes readily to brunette Carlyn Franz, who spent two years as a model and magazine cover girl. Carlyn, being both photogenic and shapely, found a model's life a profitable one, but what she liked best was that it gave her time and money to pursue her first love: dancing.

Our photographer was lucky enough to wangle an invitation last summer to observe her during an outdoor rehearsal of Wind Dance, which she plans to include in her New York repertory this winter. The dunes at Montauk Point, Long Island, provided an ideal backdrop for the spirited young dancer, in her portrayal of the spirit of youth swept by love of the salt winds of the sea. More important, says Carlyn, the real experience helped her develop those movements which will carry the outdoor "feel" of the dance across the footlights to an indoor audience.

Miss Franz, born in New York City, is just 22 years old. She is a graduate of Hunter College, where she majored in dramatics and performed competently in many campus productions. Her special aptitude, however, lay in the allied field of the dance. Here her instinctive grace, coupled with rigorous training, promise to reward her with an outstanding career.

A filmy gown, blowing hair dominate Carlyn's costume.

Hands are important in modern dancing.

Arms open to her "lover," the salt wind from the sea.

Search for understanding: an allegory in pantomime.

Finale: felled by the wearying violence of the wind she loves.
